2019-20 Asian American Student Scholarship

Asian Pacific American Studies at Arizona State University administers two scholarship programs. Please check the program for which you are applying (you may check both).

☐ Y.F. Wu Scholarship. This scholarship is funded by the Y. F. Wu Scholarship endowment, intended to support the success and leadership development of students of Asian American and Pacific Islander descent who will be or are attending ASU. Awards range from $500 to $2000.

☐ Asian Pacific American Community Scholarship. This scholarship is funded by Arizona State University. Any student, regardless of ethnicity, may apply for this scholarship. Awards tend to range from $500 book awards to full tuition (currently $9200).

Both scholarships recognize students who have taken an APA class or who are currently enrolled in the APAS major, minor or certificate program OR students who demonstrate academic excellence combined with service and leadership to the Asian American and Pacific Islander community.

Note: Only one application is required for both scholarship programs. The Y.F. Wu Scholarship Committee will determine whether the student is awarded either a Y.F. Wu Scholarship or an Asian Pacific American Community Scholarship.
