

Academic Status Report Resources

Q. What is an Academic Status Report?

A. An Academic Status Report (ASR) is a method of providing early, personalized feedback regarding your progress in a class. It is not a part of your official transcript.

Q. What is included in an ASR?

A. You will see your current grade in the class. You may also see a reason for the grade and recommendation for improvement.

Q. How will I know if an ASR has been completed for me?

A. If you have received an ASR, at the end of the reporting period, an icon will appear in your My Classes box on My ASU. Clicking on that icon will give you pop-up box with the detailed information completed by your instructor. You will also receive an email from the ASR System Administrator sent to your ASU email account.

Q. Are ASR's only for 100- and 200-level classes?

A. No. All faculty, including faculty teaching graduate level classes, have the opportunity to give feedback to students in this way.

Q. If I get an ASR, does this mean I am also off track?

A. No. The ASR system is not directly related to the eAdvisor Critical Tracking system. However, an ASR is an indication that you may not be performing well in a class. If that class is also a critical requirement, you may be off track at the end of the semester.

Q. Can I get an ASR if I am doing well in a class?

A. Yes. Faculty can complete positive ASR's indicating satisfactory progress. It is important that you click on the ASR icon in your My Classes box on My ASU to find out more information about why the ASR was filed.

Q. How many ASR reporting periods are there? Can I receive an ASR for a summer class?

A. There is one ASR reporting period each for Session A and Session B. Session C has two reporting periods. There are no reporting periods during the summer. ASR reporting periods are indicated on the Academic Calendar.

Q. I received an ASR. What do I do now?

A. It is important that you do everything possible to improve your class standing; taking corrective action now should enable you to improve your performance while there is still time in the session. In addition to speaking with your instructor, your advisor can discuss your situation and provide more detailed advice and resources to improve your situation.

You are encouraged to take advantage of the many student success resources across ASU. They include:

Tutoring and Academic Support

Student Success Centers, located on all ASU campuses, offer free academic support resources for all students including:

- Tutoring – With in-person and online options available.
- Writing support – Need help with a writing assignment for a class? Working on your resume? They can help with all your writing needs from structuring a paper to proofreading.
- Structured study groups – Get together with other students from your class to discuss concepts, compare notes and share strategies.

Advising Services

- You may view your academic advisor information and contact your advisor through My ASU, or you may view ASU's directory of academic advisors.

Student Support

- Disability Resources Center
- International Student Office
- Multicultural Student Services
- Veterans Services

- Career Services

Health and Wellness

- Campus Health Service
- Counseling Services

Finances

- Financial Aid Office
- Scholarships
- Student Employment

View ASU's Academic Calendar.